Men with red blood in their veins, the argonauts of the period, bold spirits going out to the frontiers of the civilization of their day, have always had a warm place in the hearts of all class of people. Hero worship is only admiration of deeds which one would like to do himself. It is this general love of the heroic which makes Rex Beach's novel, "The Spoilers," universally popular. Alaska is the last word in rugged adventure and the hero of this novel fights not primarily for gold, but for his rights. The Midas might be a rich mine, or it might be a Duke. That makes no difference to the prospector who has located it and is working if when it comes to having it jumped and confiscated by those representing the man-made statutes.

Her recommendations to Governor Crane concerning the needs of the State Industrial School for Girls, of which Mrs. Angie A. Russell is superintendent, she says it will require $40,225 to run the school for the next two years. In this sum is contained appropriations for a new barn and several other improvements the superintendent says are necessary for best interests of the school and those it seeks to benefit.

OIL TAX CASE

BEING ARGUED

Attorney for Prairie Oil and Gas Company and Attorney General for State Presenting Case Today.

Arguments were being heard in the state supreme court this afternoon on the application of the Prairie Oil and Gas company for a writ of injunction to prevent the state board of equalization from certifying an additional assessment of $10,500,000 against the Prairie company.

C. E. Ames of this city presented the cause for the Prairie company. He contended that the proceedings of the board show plainly that it attempted to place a tax upon oil wells leases "as such" of the company, valued at over $7,000, which was clearly in violation of the law as laid down in a recent decision of the supreme court. He also contend that the state board of equalization had exceeded its work in assessing not before the meeting when the $10,500,000 was added was held, and that it gave power to again take up the matter of assessing property. Mr. Ames also contend that the fixing of the state tax also indirectly closed the mirror of assessors by the board for the current year and that it only could add the valuation of property claimed to have been undervalued to the assessed valuation for next year with due cent interest added. Mr. Ames stated that the amount of taxes levied income proposed increased to approximately $200,000.

Attorney General West in his answer denied that the state board of equalization had finally closed its work of assessing property and contended that the board has a right to add valuations previously overlooked to the assessment at any time. He alleged that the Prairie company had conceded the value of a portion of its property and that there was a big discrepancy between the valuation as returned to the corporation commission by the tax commissioners of that corporation and the return as made to the state board of equalization.

Attorneys for the Prairie company presented an affidavit from V. F. Van Tayl of Independence, Kan., tax commissioner of the company, denying that any property had been concealed from assessment.

Elmer E. Brown, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is busy today arranging the program for the banquet to be given January 8 to the retiring and incoming state officers. A number of prominent Oklahoma City men will be asked to give five-minute addresses on questions of city, state and national interest. Mr. Brown stated that the names of the speakers will be announced as soon as they have accepted the invitations.

THE FOLLY.

The last of the present vaudeville bill will be shown at the Folly theater tonight. There are four first class acts and the feature is that of Tom Bradford, who is known as "The Human Band." Bradford is "an entire brass band" and the act is one that creates a great deal of laughter from beginning to end. There are three other clever acts, including dancing, singing and talking and also a good program of feature and comedy pictures. There will be a complete change of program tomorrow afternoon.
